Message from Part C’s State Family Resource Coordinator, Information & Referral……

Dear Parents/Families,

The next two months we have an opportunity to celebrate both “Mother’s Day” & “Father’s Day”

Like any parent, when you find out your child has a disability the first thing you look for is information. You read books, do research on the internet, and ask questions.

Families are a key part of the early childhood intervention team. However parents of children with disabilities daily face a daunting array of decisions in support of their children. Family caregiving involves medical, educational, emotional, and psychological support, both for the children with disabilities and for other family members (e.g., siblings).

One of the resources available to parents, professionals, educators, and staff working with young children with disabilities and their families is the Early Childhood Special Education Library located in the IDEA Part C office. This library contains thousands of books, articles, videos and other materials regarding children, families, disabilities, parenting, grandparenting, sibling relationships, working as a team, and early intervention practices. This library is available for use statewide to families, service providers and educators; families can request materials through their service coordinator.

If you would like more information, please feel free to contact me at: ddinnell@adsd.nv.gov

Sincerely,

Dan Dinnell

Updates from the Tots ’n Tech Research Institute...

The Tots ’n Tech Research Institute (TnT) published in it’s March of 2012 Newsletter, information on integrating iPad use into everyday activities and routines to promote the participation of all young children.

The Institute has also been updating its new Tots ’n Tech Helpdesk, which provides a wealth of current information about adaptations and assistive technology (AT) for infants and toddlers. It is designed to make it easy to find adaptations or AT solutions for everyday situations.

Mothers’ Day is May 13th

There are a great many things to learn...

Check out some of the resources below, or check the Library page on the NEIS web site at... http://health.nv.gov/BEIS_SpecialEdLibrary.htm, for other titles.

Videos in our Library:

“A Child with Special Needs” — this DVD features families with special needs children who share their personal stories in order to help other families understand the experiences, emotions and challenges they will encounter. Doctors, legal advisors, educators, and special needs workers also offer guidance and encouragement to help parents cope and become the best possible advocate for their child. This video provides information on: What to do when you find out that your child has a special need; Moving from confusion and grief to acceptance and empowerment; Finding answers and getting help; Speaking up as your child's best advocate; The importance of looking beyond the diagnosis; and, Focusing on your child's unique strengths.

Books in our Library:

“Breakthrough Parenting for Children with Special Needs: Raising the Bar of Expectations” — award-winning writer Judy Winter helps parents 'raise the bar of expectations' for their challenged children. Winter fought for a normal life for her son, Eric, before losing him to cerebral palsy. "The demands of special needs challenged me to the limits of human endurance and helped me realize my most heartfelt life dreams, too," she writes. From getting over the myth of the perfect baby, to dealing with staring, to maneuvering the school system, her wisdom is both practical and inspiring."

“Building a Joyful Life with your Child who has Special Needs” — This book considers the challenges of caring for children with physical, developmental and mental health disorders and proposes methods such as learning to see events through your child’s own eyes, celebrating their strengths and achievements and recognizing how others can help your child. Chapters deal with key topics such as coping with a diagnosis, discussing support needs with a child’s teachers and explaining a child’s differences to their peers, and the authors stress the importance of parents building support systems for themselves and their children.

“Chicken Soup for the Soul: Children with Special Needs - Stories of love and understanding for those who care for children with disabilities” — Raising a child with special needs is a lifelong commitment that is as unique as each person who embarks on it. Written by a variety of authors who share in this distinctive relationship, Chicken Soup for the Soul: Children with Special Needs offers a glimpse into the lives of others who are on a similar path. These stories provide insight, comfort, and connection with others who have walked this powerful and transformational journey.

Fathers’ Day is June 17th

One out of nine fathers has a child with a developmental or physical disability. (Batten & Stowell, 1996; Knitzer & Bernard, 1997)

Videos in our Library:

“Father’s Voices: A Journey of the Heart” DVD — The film focuses on four dads and how their lives have been dramatically changed because of their children.

Books in our Library:

“Uncommon Fathers: Reflections on Raising a Child With a Disability” — a moving collection of 19 essays by fathers with children of various ages and various special needs. This book gives voice to fathers who are often overlooked in the literature about families of children with special needs.

“Special CHILDREN, Challenged PARENTS: The Struggles and Rewards of Raising a Child with a Disability” — This book shares the unique perspective of a father of a son with autism, with additional reflection from his perspective as a clinical psychologist who specializes in working with families of children with disabilities. This book illustrates the impact that a child’s disability has on the entire family. Readers learn about resources, such as support groups, for working through complex emotions and about techniques for communicating effectively with professionals. Though the author's personal experience is with autism, this book is a valuable resource for families of children with a wide range of disabilities.

In the United States today there are approximately 66 million people, or 29% of the U.S. adult population who are caring at home for family members including elderly parents, spouses, and children with disabilities and/or special health care needs.

Without this home-care, many of these cared for loved ones would require permanent placement in institutions or health care facilities. The value of the services family caregivers provide for "free" is estimated to be over $450 billion a year. That is more than twice as much as is spent on homecare and nursing home services combined, estimated at $158 billion.
